Metropolitan Commercial Bank Hosts Ethnic Coalition of Faith Partners Meeting

GREAT NECK, N.Y. - November 12, 2018 — Metropolitan Commercial Bank recently hosted an Ethnic Coalition of Faith Partners meeting at its Great Neck banking center— providing an opportunity for members of multiple faiths and cultural groups in the Great Neck area to come together to share experiences and discuss opportunities for greater community engagement. The coalition is comprised of members from Temple Emanuel, St. Aloysius Roman Catholic Church, St. Paul Ame Zion Church, Unitarian Universalist Congregation, the Chinese Center of Long Island, Long Island Muslim Society, Cellini Lodge, Tzu Chi Foundation, and representatives from Metropolitan Commercial Bank— Ralph Ventura and Phablo DaCosta. Assemblyman Anthony D’Urso joined the Coalition members in discussing how individual group traditions can be respected within the context of all groups sharing core values shared as Americans.

Metropolitan Commercial Bank offers its banking centers as unique gathering spaces for local community groups – whether it’s a business networking or professional group, a charitable organization or to showcase artwork through its Bank on Art Showcase initiative. The practice supports the Bank’s commitment to be an active participant in the local communities it serves throughout the greater metro New York region.
